

worthy of such serious and flattering attention from foreign governments. But there was scarcely a nation worthy of the name not represented at the White House today, and all were represented in the innumerable costly gifts which have been showered upon the bride. The marriage illustrations, as nothing else has done recently, the changed status of America among the nations of the world.

Unsung Pictorial.
There was a great deal of "the shouting and the tumult." The wedding has been discussed for months by all classes until soberly humanity has become tired of so much fuss about the marriage of an American couple, who were simply illustrating a story as old as the first man and the first woman—in the garden.
Mingled with much of that sentiment indicated in the time worn "all the world loves a lover" was a great deal of sympathy, and sympathy, that was nauseating to the men and women of true Americanism. But there has never been the slightest ground for changing that the young people themselves have sought such attention, and notoriety as the people have given them.
Those who knew best, and none know better than the Washington correspondents know, that the couple have conducted themselves in the most natural, and unaffected manner. And those who have not fawned, and have not sought to pay homage where self-respect forbade, representing as they must do the great mass of the people, of the greatest of all nations, unite in wishing the groom and the daughter of the chief magistrate of this country a long life of love and of all that makes for happiness in life.

OLD SOL WAS KIND TO WEDDING THROUG

Warm Sunshine of a Perfect February Day Flooded Historic

East Room.
(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., February 17.—With a plain cloud of virgin gold in the historic East Room of the White House at thirteen minutes after 12 o'clock today, Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the representative in Congress from the West District of Ohio, were united in marriage.
The ceremony—one of the most impressive ever performed in the executive mansion—was according to the liturgy of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of which the bride is a member. It was solemnized by the Right Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, bishop of Washington, and was attended by all the solemn state of a grand official function and by the devotionality of a cathedral service. No ceremony of a similar kind was ever witnessed by a more distinguished assemblage. There were present as guests not only the most eminent representatives of the American government, but the personal missions of the kings and potentates of the powers of the civilized world, constituting an assemblage not only one of the largest, but the most distinguished that ever was gathered at one time in the White House.
While the bride herself and the Pres-

"Berry's for Clothes."

DUNLAP SPRING HATS—READY.

The New Sack Coat: thirty-two inches long, vent at sides or back.
The new Double-breasted Sack, thirty-three inches long, deep vent at sides.
Both coats have wide collar and lapels. They are full, but are fitted in slightly to the figure.
An extravagant life insurance president would pay more, but he could hardly get finer results than can be had in these $30 Suits of ours.
Only $17.75 now.
$18 and $20 Suits and Overcoats, only $12.75.

BARGAINS
Trousers:
All through the various grades in trousers we've rummaged and are offering the aggregated broken lots at the startlingly low price of $1.50 (75 cents the leg—seats free). Don't you need trousers?

Free Watches:
Watches in our Boys' Department for last week go to Mrs. Arthur Gayle and Radford Vaden.

CHARMING GIRL CHUMS OF MRS. NICK LONGWORTH

MISS FRANCES GRISCOM.

MISS MATHILDE TOWNSEND.

to the windows were palms, selected for the beauty and closeness of their leaves. This group of palms was fringed at the base with a delicate Japanese. Forming a background were drapery, sander of green and white and gorgeous Easter lilies. Above the platform there was a garland of greenhouse smilax and asparagus, with scores of the loveliest Bride roses nestling in the green. The effect of the whole was exquisitely beautiful.

While the decorations in the other rooms of the main floor of the White House were beautiful, they were less elaborate than those in the East room. The guests in the Green room were filled with Enchanted carnations of delicate pink and fern fronds. The Blue room vases bore Easter lilies with fern and asparagus fronds, while two great vases at each end of the mantel were filled with Easter lilies and white roses. In the window recesses small palms and flowering plants were disposed effectively. In the Red room, to harmonize with the color scheme of the apartment, the vases contained Jacquemont roses in a setting of fern and asparagus fronds. The state dining-room, which was not thrown open to the guests until after the ceremony, was a vision of grandeur. The great, high walls and ceiling, paneled in walnut like the halls of a Saxon lord of old, bearing just below the ceiling, the hunting trophies of the present, formed a magnificent setting for the beautifully decorated table on which, amid a shimmer of silver and cut glass, the buffet wedding breakfast was laid. The great table, extending almost the entire length of the apartment, was decorated with vases of American Beauty and Bride roses, ferns and asparagus. In the private dining-room, which opens into the state dining-room on the north, the vases on the mantel were filled with Bride roses and fern fronds. The decorations of the main corridor were beautifully artistic. The two great jardinières between the columns

- a—Dance of the Bayaderes, No. 1, mod-crato.
- b—Candle Dance of the Brides of Kashmir.
- c—Dance of the Bayaderes, No. 2, al-lagro vivas assal.
- d—Wedding Procession.
- e—Polonaise, "Military," Chopin.
- f—Waltz, "The Debutante," Santelmann.
- g—Serenade from symphony "Rural Wedding," Goldmark.
- h—Fleur-de-lis, Herbert.

Bishop Satterlee.

Bishop Satterlee, who officiated at the wedding of Miss Alice Roosevelt and Nicholas Longworth, is a church dignitary who has for years enjoyed the confidence of the ultra fashionable society at Washington.

- 8—Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2, Liszt.
- 9—March, Bride-Elect, Sousa.

Guests Assembled.

During the time the guests were assembling for the military and naval officers detailed for the occasion to the White House as the social aides of the president were completing the arrangements by seeing that the distinguished throng was disposed properly for the ceremony. The officers were: Colonel G. S. Bromwell, U. S. A., the president's military aide; Lieutenant-Commander A. L. Key, U. S. N., the president's naval aide; Major Charles L. McGrawley, U. S. M. C., Captain A. E. Harding, U. S. M. C.; Captain Guy V. Henry, U. S. A.; Captain Dan T. Moore, U. S. A.; Captain Fitzhugh Lee, Jr., U. S. A.; Lieutenant U. S. Grant, M. U. S. A.; Lieutenant P. H. Sheridan, U. S. A.; Lieutenant Chauncey Shaddock, U. S. N.; Ensign Adolphus Andrew, U. S. N.; Captain Spencer Cosby, U. S. A.; Captain A. W. Butt, U. S. A.; Lieutenant J. H. Pole, U. S. A.

INCIDENT STARTS SMALL COMMOTION

Few Minutes Prior to Ceremony Mrs. Wayne MacVeigh Faints, But Recovers.

Shortly before twelve o'clock, the hour set for the ceremony, Mrs. Wayne MacVeigh, one of the guests in the East Room, fainted. The distressing incident induced no small commotion among the other guests. Mrs. MacVeigh was carried by Ensign Adolphus Andrews, U. S. N., from the East Room to the Blue Room, where she was placed on a couch. She revived almost immediately and was able to witness the marriage.

At four minutes after twelve o'clock Mrs. Roosevelt, on the arm of her eldest son, Theodore, Jr., descended the main staircase and entered the East Room by the west door. She was preceded by Major Charles McCawley, and other military aides and was escorted to a point at the left of the platform where the wedding ceremony was to take place. The mother and sisters of the bridegroom and other designated members of his family already had assumed their places at the right of the platform. That a way might be kept clear for the approach to the extemporized altar of the wedding party, twisted white satin ropes were stretched from each side of the main entrance to the East Room to points on the east wall of the apartment on the north and south sides of the floral archway.

- 1—Grand March, "Tannhauser," Wagner.
- 2—Overture, "Jubilee," von Weber.
- 3—Ballet music and wedding procession, from the opera "Fenimore," Rubinstein.

Along the corridor were planted with handsome rhododendrons in full flower. The blossoms were of purple and pink and the plants were so arranged in the jardinières that they formed a living screen just twelve inches high.

Wedding Music.

Behind the screen was stationed in the vestibule the United States Marine band, under the personal leadership of Lieutenant William H. Santelmann, the director of the band. A special program had been prepared, selected for the most part by Miss Roosevelt herself. During the wedding and the reception and breakfast which followed the band rendered the program which follows:

- 1—Grand March, "Tannhauser," Wagner.
- 2—Overture, "Jubilee," von Weber.
- 3—Ballet music and wedding procession, from the opera "Fenimore," Rubinstein.

As she entered the East Room, Mrs. Roosevelt graciously acknowledged the greetings of friends. She wore a superb gown of cream-colored brocade, heavy and richly designed, on which were figures of blue and brown, interlaced with threads of gold. The dress was cut in princess style, with a long train of the same brocade material.

It was trimmed in brown chiffon, embroidered in blue and gold. The yoke of the bodice was formed of embroidered chiffon, as were the trimmings of the elbow sleeves. The skirt, exquisitely designed, was paneled in blue and gold embroidery. She wore long white undressed kid gloves and ornaments of diamonds.

Following her almost immediately came the bridegroom, the Hon. Nicholas Longworth, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, one of the members of the corporation of Harvard College and a classmate at college of Mr. Longworth. They descended the main staircase and entered the East Room under the escort of the military aides. The groom and his best man took their places at the foot of the embowered platform to await the coming of the bride. Already Bishop Satterlee had taken his place on the platform, attended in the purple and ivory robes of his clerical office.

Bridal Procession Starts.
Scarcely had the bridegroom entered the East Room, when the doors of the state dining-room at the west entrance of the

BACKACHE? IT'S YOUR KIDNEYS

Mrs. Estelle Clayton, of Toronto, Canada, Suffered Intensely From Pain in Back and Kidneys. Completely Cured by

WARNER'S SAFE CURE
A TRIAL BOTTLE OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST KIDNEY CURE SENT ABSOLUTELY FREE TO EVERY READER OF THE TIMES-DISPATCH WHO SUFFERS FROM KIDNEY, LIVER, BLADDER OR BLOOD DISEASE, OR WHAT IS COMMONLY KNOWN AMONG WOMEN AS "FEMALE WEAKNESS."

If the kidneys become diseased and are unable to do their work properly, the liver becomes affected, then the bladder, the urinary organs, the blood and the stomach. The blood becomes impoverished, the urine becomes muddy, and will have a brick-dust sediment if it stands for 24 hours; the liver becomes torpid, and pains in the back are almost constant as the system becomes pregnant with the disease.

If any trace of kidney disease shows itself, get a bottle of WARNER'S SAFE CURE. It will purify and strengthen the kidneys, kill the disease germs, prevent the serious complications that are bound to arise, and restore perfect health.

SUFFERED INTENSELY
Mrs. Estelle Clayton, a noted Canadian society woman, says: "We have used Warner's Safe Cure in our family for several years. It cured my husband of backache and kidney trouble, and Warner's also cured me of a serious cold that settled in my back and kidneys, and which caused me intense suffering and pain."—Mrs. Estelle Clayton, 554 Adelaide street, Toronto, Canada.

KIDNEY DISEASE
WARNER'S SAFE CURE is purely vegetable, and contains no harmful drugs. It is prescribed by doctors and used in leading hospitals for disease of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood.

WARNER'S SAFE PILLS taken with WARNER'S SAFE CURE move the bowels gently and add a speedy cure.

WARNER'S SAFE CURE is put up in two regular sizes and sold by all druggists, or direct, 50 cents and $1 a bottle. Refuse substitutes.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE

To convince every sufferer from diseases of the liver, kidney, bladder and blood, that WARNER'S SAFE CURE will cure them, a trial bottle will be sent ABSOLUTELY FREE to any one who will write WARNER'S SAFE CURE Co., Rochester, N. Y., and mention having seen this liberal offer in The Times-Dispatch. The genuineness of this offer is fully guaranteed by the publisher. Our doctors will send medical booklet, containing symptoms and treatment of each disease, and many convincing testimonials, FREE, to any one who will write.

main corridor were hung open and the bridal procession started for the extemporized altar.

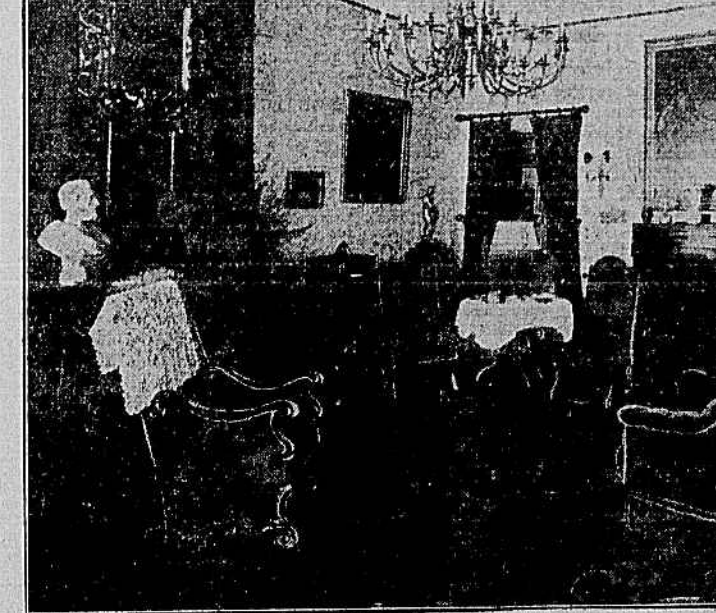

The President and Miss Roosevelt had descended from the upper apartments of the White House by the elevator. They had passed into the private dining room, and thence into the State dining-room. They were joined by the ushers, Mr. A. Shaw, of Boston; Frederic Winthrop, of New York; Francis R. Bangs, of Boston; Guy Norman, of Boston; B. A. Wallingford, of Cincinnati; Larz Anderson, of Washington, D. C.; Viscount Charles de Chambrun, of the French embassy, and Theodore Roosevelt, Jr. Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Shaw led the bridal procession.

Following the ushers came President Roosevelt and the bride of Mr. Longworth, her hand resting lightly within the right arm of her father. The procession moved through the main corridor and into the East Room, the Marine Band Orchestra rendered effectively the grand march of Wagner's Tannhauser. Miss Roosevelt never appeared to better advantage. Perfectly self-possessed and thoroughly appreciative of the situation, she graciously recognized and bowed to personal friends who lined dress was complete. The gown had a particularly long court train of elegant silver brocade. The bodice was made high without a collar, was trimmed with beautiful and old point lace, the sleeves being finished at the elbow with the same filmy material. Long white gloves barely met the sleeves. A voluminous tulle veil practically completely enveloped the graceful figure of the morning bride. In her hair it was caught and held in place by clusters of orange blossoms. Her dainty slippers, in perfect harmony with her gown, were fastened with silver brocade and tulle bows, caught with orange flowers instead of buckles. The bride wore no jewels except the magnificent diamond necklace which was the gift of the groom. She carried a lovely shower bouquet of the finest and fairest white orchids which the groom was able to procure. The fragile blossoms were arranged in cascade effect, falling over her right arm nearly to the foot of her gown. The bouquet was tied with chiffon satin ribbon in long bows.

As the ushers reached the platform they separated, and the President and the bride passed through the two lines. Mr. Longworth stepped forward and received Miss Roosevelt from the arm of the way to the altar. Her wedding gown was an exquisite creation. It was of ivory white brocade, satin, point lace, chiffon, filmy tulle and silver brocade. The material from which the gown was created was manufactured expressly for Miss Roosevelt.

PARLOR IN LONGWORTH'S WASHINGTON RESIDENCE, FUTURE HOME OF BRIDE AND GROOM

The design intricate and delicate in its details, was destroyed as soon as the necessary amount of the material for the

CASTORIA.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Charles H. Fletcher

Mr. Julian W. Tyler, the popular and progressive Broad Street clothier, accompanied by Mr. M. B. Angle, will leave this week for New York and other prominent fashion centers. Always striving to give the Richmond world the benefit of the very newest metropolitan ideas in the way of men's, boys' and children's clothing and haberdashery, Mr. Tyler and his efficient assistant will visit the modern establishments in the North-east cities, carefully inspecting every detail, and without doubt they will return brimful of the very latest modern ideas.

CASTORIA.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Charles H. Fletcher

and handed it to Mr. Longworth. When he had placed it on the fourth finger of his bride's left hand, the bishop pronounced that they were "man and wife."

Hold Informal Reception.

At the conclusion of the service, which occupied less than ten minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth held an informal reception of the guests attendant upon the ceremony. President Roosevelt was the first to greet and to offer his best wishes to the bride and groom. He was followed by Mrs. Roosevelt and then by the bride's brothers and sisters in the order of their ages.

Mrs. Longworth and the sisters of the bridegroom then extended their congratulations. They were followed by the distinguished persons present: the Austrian ambassador and Madame Hengelmüller leading the diplomatic contingent as the acting dean of the corps.

Immediately after extending their greetings to the bride and bridegroom, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt passed through the main corridor into the Blue Room. There they received the guests at the wedding after they had offered their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Passing from the Blue Room, the guests entered through the Red Room, and main corridor to the state dining-room, where an elaborate buffet wedding breakfast was served. No attempt was made to seat any of the guests, but attentive waiters saw to it that no guest was left unattended.

The reception and the serving of the breakfast continued until shortly after 3 o'clock. By that time the greater number of the guests had left the White House and the bride had retired to the upper apartments to prepare for her going away.

Bride is Photographed.

A photograph of the bride in her wedding gown was taken before her departure from the White House.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth left the White House by the south entrance, thereby avoiding a large and curious throng which had assembled in front of the mansion. Alone they entered a large automobile and were driven rapidly away. They went, it is understood, but not disclosed authoritatively to the country home of John R. McLean, "Friendship," a few miles from the heart of Washington on the Tenallytown road.

As the bridal couple entered the automobile, they were showered with dainty slippers of rice thrown by the brothers and sister of the bride, and by the younger members of the Roosevelt family connections who were present.

Mrs. Longworth was attended to the big touring car by Charles McCawley, a longtime friend and one of the social aides of President Roosevelt. Mr. Perkins, the bridegroom's best man, accompanied Mr. Longworth to the car. Standing on the south portico of the White House the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral and Mrs. Cwies and other members of the family bade the bridal couple God-speed and waived handkerchiefs to them until they were out of sight. Just as the automobile drew away from the White House an old shoe, thrown by one of the ushers at the wedding, alighted on the top of the machine, and it remained there so long as the car was in sight. It soon became known about that the bride and bridegroom had left the Executive Mansion, but not until that fact became known definitely did the throng about the White House grounds disperse.

VIRGINIA ANCESTRY OF MR. LONGWORTH

Mr. Longworth's grandmother was Anna Maria Rives, daughter of Dr. Landon Cabell Rives and Anna Maria Fowles. Dr. Rives was a son of Mr. Robert Rives of Oak Ridge, Nelson county, Va., and Margaret Cabell, daughter of Colonel William Cabell, senior, of Union Hill, and of Margaret Jordan, daughter of Colonel Samuel Jordan, of Seven Islands.

Through his grandmother he is related to the best and noblest families of the South, and through his great-grandmother, Anna Maria Fowles, he is connected with the families of Byrds, Beverleys, Chews and Rives.

Dr. Landon C. Rives owned a large tract of land in Nelson county, and

The Best Man and Ushers at Roosevelt-Longworth Wedding

Francis Reginald Bangs, Viscount Chas. De Chambrun, Thos. Nelson Perkins, Best Man, Larz Anderson.

Buckner Wallingford, Guy Norman.

dent and Mrs. Roosevelt had desired that the ceremony of the marriage should be as quiet and simple as possible, it was found impracticable to limit the function, as was intended at first, to the immediate relatives of the bride and bridegroom. It became necessary to include among the guests invited certain officials, classes and personal friends of Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth, and, in all, the people bidden to the ceremony numbered a thousand.

Most Brilliant Event.

The ceremony took place in the East Room, made famous by a century of brilliant social functions, but no event in its history ever was so brilliant and beautiful as that of today. The classic splendor of the great apartment was enhanced by exquisite and artistic decorations, and the brilliant sunlight of a gorgeous day lent added beauty to the setting of the wedding.

It had been intended to light the magnificent East Room with the hundreds of softly-shaded electric lights of the great crystal chandeliers, but, while artificial lights were utilized throughout the remainder of the White House, it was determined to flood the marriage scene with sunlight.

It was a beautiful conceit, founded upon the pretty proverb:

"Happy is the bride the sun shines on."

No lovelier day in winter ever dawned. The air was balmy, almost as in spring. No more auspicious day for a wedding could have been imagined.

Elaborate Decorations.

For days the White House, ordinarily open to visitors during specified hours of each day, had been closed, pending arrangements for to-day's ceremony. The East Room, in which the ceremony occurred, was decorated most elaborately. Not since the incoming of the administration of President Roosevelt have the White House apartments been so exquisitely graced with flowers as they were to-day. While no space necessary for guests was taken up with floral decorations, every room in the lower part of the Executive Mansion was brilliant with flowers and decorative plants. The decorations were planned and executed by George H. Brown, of the government botanical gardens, who studied with the eye of an artist the color scheme of the rooms of the White House and developed his ideas of floral decorations in accordance with the coloring of the various apartments.

At the great center window, directly opposite the main entrance of the room, and overlooking the east terrace, a superb floral bower had been contrived with exquisite skill and artistic taste. A semicircular platform, twelve inches high, was constructed before the window. On this the ceremony took place, so that all in the room had practically an unobstructed view of it. The platform was carpeted in green, of handsome design, and over the carpet was thrown with artistic carelessness an elegant oriental figure in colors, red predominated. Flanked back of the platform and next to the windows were palms, selected for the beauty and closeness of their leaves. This group of palms was fringed at the base with a delicate Japanese. Forming a background were drapery, sander of green and white and gorgeous Easter lilies. Above the platform there was a garland of greenhouse smilax and asparagus, with scores of the loveliest Bride roses nestling in the green. The effect of the whole was exquisitely beautiful.

While the decorations in the other rooms of the main floor of the White House were beautiful, they were less elaborate than those in the East room. The guests in the Green room were filled with Enchanted carnations of delicate pink and fern fronds. The Blue room vases bore Easter lilies with fern and asparagus fronds, while two great vases at each end of the mantel were filled with Easter lilies and white roses. In the window recesses small palms and flowering plants were disposed effectively. In the Red room, to harmonize with the color scheme of the apartment, the vases contained Jacquemont roses in a setting of fern and asparagus fronds. The state dining-room, which was not thrown open to the guests until after the ceremony, was a vision of grandeur. The great, high walls and ceiling, paneled in walnut like the halls of a Saxon lord of old, bearing just below the ceiling, the hunting trophies of the present, formed a magnificent setting for the beautifully decorated table on which, amid a shimmer of silver and cut glass, the buffet wedding breakfast was laid. The great table, extending almost the entire length of the apartment, was decorated with vases of American Beauty and Bride roses, ferns and asparagus. In the private dining-room, which opens into the state dining-room on the north, the vases on the mantel were filled with Bride roses and fern fronds. The decorations of the main corridor were beautifully artistic. The two great jardinières between the columns along the corridor were planted with handsome rhododendrons in full flower. The blossoms were of purple and pink and the plants were so arranged in the jardinières that they formed a living screen just twelve inches high.

Wedding Music.
Behind the screen was stationed in the vestibule the United States Marine band, under the personal leadership of Lieutenant William H. Santelmann, the director of the band. A special program had been prepared, selected for the most part by Miss Roosevelt herself. During the wedding and the reception and breakfast which followed the band rendered the program which follows:

- 1—Grand March, "Tannhauser," Wagner.
- 2—Overture, "Jubilee," von Weber.
- 3—Ballet music and wedding procession, from the opera "Fenimore," Rubinstein.

As she entered the East Room, Mrs. Roosevelt graciously acknowledged the greetings of friends. She wore a superb gown of cream-colored brocade, heavy and richly designed, on which were figures of blue and brown, interlaced with threads of gold. The dress was cut in princess style, with a long train of the same brocade material.

It was trimmed in brown chiffon, embroidered in blue and gold. The yoke of the bodice was formed of embroidered chiffon, as were the trimmings of the elbow sleeves. The skirt, exquisitely designed, was paneled in blue and gold embroidery. She wore long white undressed kid gloves and ornaments of diamonds.

Following her almost immediately came the bridegroom, the Hon. Nicholas Longworth, accompanied by his best man, Mr. Thomas Nelson Perkins, of Boston, one of the members of the corporation of Harvard College and a classmate at college of Mr. Longworth. They descended the main staircase and entered the East Room under the escort of the military aides. The groom and his best man took their places at the foot of the embowered platform to await the coming of the bride. Already Bishop Satterlee had taken his place on the platform, attended in the purple and ivory robes of his clerical office.

Bridal Procession Starts.
Scarcely had the bridegroom entered the East Room, when the doors of the state dining-room at the west entrance of the dress was complete. The gown had a particularly long court train of elegant silver brocade. The bodice was made high without a collar, was trimmed with beautiful and old point lace, the sleeves being finished at the elbow with the same filmy material. Long white gloves barely met the sleeves. A voluminous tulle veil practically completely enveloped the graceful figure of the morning bride. In her hair it was caught and held in place by clusters of orange blossoms. Her dainty slippers, in perfect harmony with her gown, were fastened with silver brocade and tulle bows, caught with orange flowers instead of buckles. The bride wore no jewels except the magnificent diamond necklace which was the gift of the groom. She carried a lovely shower bouquet of the finest and fairest white orchids which the groom was able to procure. The fragile blossoms were arranged in cascade effect, falling over her right arm nearly to the foot of her gown. The bouquet was tied with chiffon satin ribbon in long bows.

As the ushers reached the platform they separated, and the President and the bride passed through the two lines. Mr. Longworth stepped forward and received Miss Roosevelt from the arm of the way to the altar. Her wedding gown was an exquisite creation. It was of ivory white brocade, satin, point lace, chiffon, filmy tulle and silver brocade. The material from which the gown was created was manufactured expressly for Miss Roosevelt.

The design intricate and delicate in its details, was destroyed as soon as the necessary amount of the material for the

CASTORIA.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Charles H. Fletcher

Mr. Julian W. Tyler, the popular and progressive Broad Street clothier, accompanied by Mr. M. B. Angle, will leave this week for New York and other prominent fashion centers. Always striving to give the Richmond world the benefit of the very newest metropolitan ideas in the way of men's, boys' and children's clothing and haberdashery, Mr. Tyler and his efficient assistant will visit the modern establishments in the North-east cities, carefully inspecting every detail, and without doubt they will return brimful of the very latest modern ideas.

CASTORIA.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Charles H. Fletcher

At the conclusion of the service, which occupied less than ten minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth held an informal reception of the guests attendant upon the ceremony. President Roosevelt was the first to greet and to offer his best wishes to the bride and groom. He was followed by Mrs. Roosevelt and then by the bride's brothers and sisters in the order of their ages.

Mrs. Longworth and the sisters of the bridegroom then extended their congratulations. They were followed by the distinguished persons present: the Austrian ambassador and Madame Hengelmüller leading the diplomatic contingent as the acting dean of the corps.

Immediately after extending their greetings to the bride and bridegroom, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt passed through the main corridor into the Blue Room. There they received the guests at the wedding after they had offered their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Passing from the Blue Room, the guests entered through the Red Room, and main corridor to the state dining-room, where an elaborate buffet wedding breakfast was served. No attempt was made to seat any of the guests, but attentive waiters saw to it that no guest was left unattended.

The reception and the serving of the breakfast continued until shortly after 3 o'clock. By that time the greater number of the guests had left the White House and the bride had retired to the upper apartments to prepare for her going away.

A photograph of the bride in her wedding gown was taken before her departure from the White House.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth left the White House by the south entrance, thereby avoiding a large and curious throng which had assembled in front of the mansion. Alone they entered a large automobile and were driven rapidly away. They went, it is understood, but not disclosed authoritatively to the country home of John R. McLean, "Friendship," a few miles from the heart of Washington on the Tenallytown road.

As the bridal couple entered the automobile, they were showered with dainty slippers of rice thrown by the brothers and sister of the bride, and by the younger members of the Roosevelt family connections who were present.

Mrs. Longworth was attended to the big touring car by Charles McCawley, a longtime friend and one of the social aides of President Roosevelt. Mr. Perkins, the bridegroom's best man, accompanied Mr. Longworth to the car. Standing on the south portico of the White House the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, Admiral and Mrs. Cwies and other members of the family bade the bridal couple God-speed and waived handkerchiefs to them until they were out of sight. Just as the automobile drew away from the White House an old shoe, thrown by one of the ushers at the wedding, alighted on the top of the machine, and it remained there so long as the car was in sight. It soon became known about that the bride and bridegroom had left the Executive Mansion, but not until that fact became known definitely did the throng about the White House grounds disperse.

Mr. Longworth's grandmother was Anna Maria Rives, daughter of Dr. Landon Cabell Rives and Anna Maria Fowles. Dr. Rives was a son of Mr. Robert Rives of Oak Ridge, Nelson county, Va., and Margaret Cabell, daughter of Colonel William Cabell, senior, of Union Hill, and of Margaret Jordan, daughter of Colonel Samuel Jordan, of Seven Islands.

Through his grandmother he is related to the best and noblest families of the South, and through his great-grandmother, Anna Maria Fowles, he is connected with the families of Byrds, Beverleys, Chews and Rives.

Dr. Landon C. Rives owned a large tract of land in Nelson county, and

At the conclusion of the service, which occupied less than ten minutes, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth held an informal reception of the guests attendant upon the ceremony. President Roosevelt was the first to greet and to offer his best wishes to the bride and groom. He was followed by Mrs. Roosevelt and then by the bride's brothers and sisters in the order of their ages.

Mrs. Longworth and the sisters of the bridegroom then extended their congratulations. They were followed by the distinguished persons present: the Austrian ambassador and Madame Hengelmüller leading the diplomatic contingent as the acting dean of the corps.

Immediately after extending their greetings to the bride and bridegroom, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt passed through the main corridor into the Blue Room. There they received the guests at the wedding after they had offered their congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Passing from the Blue Room, the guests entered through the Red Room, and main corridor to the state dining-room, where an elaborate buffet wedding breakfast was served. No attempt was made to seat any of the guests, but attentive waiters saw to it that no guest was left unattended.

The reception and the serving of the breakfast continued until shortly after 3 o'clock. By that time the greater number of the guests had left the White House and the bride had retired to the upper apartments to prepare for her going away.

A photograph of the bride in her wedding gown was taken before her departure from the White House.

Shortly after 4 o'clock, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth left the White House by the south entrance, thereby avoiding a large and curious throng which had assembled in front of the mansion. Alone they entered a large automobile and were driven rapidly away. They went, it is understood, but not disclosed authoritatively to the country home of John R. McLean, "Friendship," a few miles from the heart of Washington on the Tenallytown road.

&lt;